

Abbey LaManna, D.D.S.

Lakeshore Family Dentistry

Your Family Deserves the Golden Rule of Dentistry.

Dr. Abbey LaManna adheres to a simple rule when practicing dentistry at Lakeshore Family Dentistry in Glendale, Wisconsin. "I want to treat families the way I would expect my family to be treated," she says.

The key part of Dr. LaManna's "Golden Rule of Dentistry" is to help patients relax. From the office space to their approach, Lakeshore Family Dentistry reduces the anxiety patients have about going to the dentist.

To calm her patients, it's common for Dr. LaManna to hum a tune while she's working, or to spend extra time with anxious patients. She recalls a recent visit from a little boy who "hated going to the dentist" as an example.

"Dr. LaManna did her best to make the little patient feel comfortable, and the visit went well. When she called to check on him the next day, the mother was very happy. "She told me her son had said, 'Thanks for finding me a nice dentist.'"

The office features a relaxing environment to put her patients' minds at ease, with soft lights and plush leather couches. "I want it to feel like you're walking into my living room, not a dentist's office," she says.

Lakeshore Family Dentistry complements the soothing approach with quality dental work. "It's very exciting for us to keep on the latest dental advancements," Dr. LaManna says. "It's highly rewarding when a patient comes back to us after an initial visit and they've maintained excellent oral health."

Dr. LaManna opened her Glendale office after attending dental school at the University of Minnesota. Her husband is also a Minnesota native.

"The state gave me a dental education and a husband. Quite a bargain!" she quips. The LaManna's live in Milwaukee with their two children.

Lakeshore Family Dentistry extends to patients of all ages. Dr. LaManna enjoys seeing generations of a family including grandparents, parents, and children. "I love getting to know others" she says. "It really gives me pleasure to help keep a family healthy."

7155 N. Port Washington Rd.
Glendale
414.352.1600

lakeshore-familydentistry.com